Split Vote Favors Reclassification

Controversial Zoning Proposal Clears First Hurdle At Council

The controversial rezoning of a strip of land behind Dwain Taylor Chevrolet from residential to commercial use moved a step closer to reality last night as the Murray Common Council, on a split vote, approved the drawing of an ordinance making the change.

The council vote on the matter was 5-3 before Mayor Melvin B. Henley cast a vote in favor of the move making the official vote 6-5 in favor of the rezoning. Technically, according to the ordinance, Mayor Henley did not have to break the tie vote since it requires a majority of the entire council (seven votes) to override a recommendation of the planning commission. The planning commission had recommended the rezoning following a public hearing held Wednesday night.

Before the rezoning becomes law, the council will have to approve an amendment to the ordinance on two readings at regular meetings.

The council action came following a lengthy debate between members of the council and the parties directly involved in the controversy.

Howard Brandon, who lives just south of the Taylor property, and his attorney, Stephen Sanders, argued against the proposed rezoning and Harold Hurt, attorney for Taylor and Taylor, Inc., owners of the property, argued in favor of the rezoning.

Howard Koenen, the council's representative on the planning commission, urged the council to turn down the requested change.

"It is the tendency on everybody's part," Koenen said, "to feel sympathetic to Mr. Taylor who bought the property and apparently now is not going to be able to utilize it unless we make this change. My record shows consistent voting against encroachment of business zones into residential zones," Koenen said in explaining why he would cast a negative vote on the proposal.

Sanders argued before the council that the complaint originated "when Mr. Taylor put six by six fenceposts across Howard Brandon's driveway to limit his ingress and egress."

But Hurt countered by saying that the fenceposts erected by Taylor were on the court-accepted boundary between the two properties that was determined by a survey conducted by Ted Billington and Associates.

"It is our feeling that the (Taylor) property is useless," Hurt told the council. "We feel the initial zoning was inappropriate and improper and the zoning should be changed due to economic and social changes in the area," Taylor's attorney added.

The property now occupied by Taylor Chevrolet is zoned commercial to a depth of 300 feet from S. 12th Street and the zoning request involves a triangular shaped parcel of land that lies to the rear of the present business zoning. It was explained that the lot fronting on 12th Street that lies between Taylor and Brandon is presently zoned for business use but that a deed restriction on the lot, which supercedes zoning laws, prohibits anything other than residential use for that site.

Hurt said that a creek running across the rear of Taylor's property is the "natural boundary" and urged the council to extend the business zone to that line.

"We're saying Taylor should be allowed to put a storage building on his property just like Mr. Brandon has behind his where he stores antique cars," Hurt said.

Brandon spoke to the council on his own behalf and urged the elected officials to turn down the zoning change.

"Any zoning change made will be used as another tool against me and my

Hubcap Thefts Continue

Hubcap thefts continue to plague city motorists, and Murray City Police Chief Brent Manning estimated today 30 sets have been reported stolen within the last month.

City police investigated still another case Thursday night.

"At one time two weeks ago, I counted and we had 20 sets reported missing...I'd say it's close to 30 now," Manning said.

Manning said the hubcaps are stolen mostly off American cars—"T-Birds, Lincolns, your more expensive cars."

The city chief of police said most of the stolen hubcaps have a good resale value. Hubcaps will average about $50 a set (two hubcaps per set); a "fence" will pay about $20 for them, Manning said.

The police chief said most reports city police receive are on wire-type hubcaps.

To lessen the risks of getting hubcaps stolen Manning advised that motorists buy small hubcap locks. He advised that motorists mark their hubcaps, possibly using an "Operation ID" marker available at city police headquarters. He also said that motorists should park their cars in well-lighted parking areas. He said a number of thefts have been reported on cars parked in large parking lots—local motels, the hospital and around Murray State.

City police also Thursday investigated a theft report from Bobby Bazzell, Route 2, Murray, who reported five ladies sweaters, two pairs of boys jeans and two pairs of ladies slacks were stolen from his car. Mrs. W.F. Ingram, 206 Woodlawn, reported that jewelry worth an estimated $150 was taken from her home.

Organizations Begin Decorations Drive

The Retail Merchants Association, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Community Improvement Association are joining together in a drive to raise money for new lighted Christmas decorations for the downtown and outlying areas this year.

Buddy Buckingham, president of the Retail Merchants Association, said that $10,000 to $12,000 is needed to purchase the new decorations.

"We are attempting a communitywide effort to raise the money. Since we plan to decorate the major intersections on Highway 641, in addition to the downtown area, we feel that the new decorations will be an asset to the community as a whole," Buckingham stated.

Civic organizations, as well as merchants, will be looked to for help in the fund-raising drive, he said.

Plans now call for five intersections to be decorated — Highway 641 and Highway 121, 12th and Chestnut, 12th and Main, 12th and Sycamore, and Highway 641 and Glendale Road. Buckingham indicated that more intersections would be decorated if adequate money were raised.

Most of the decorations that have been used for the past 11 years are in no condition to withstand another year of use, according to Buckingham. However, there is a possibility that a few of the herald angels can be salvaged for use this year.

He said that the new decorations that have been examined for purchase are similar to the ones the city has used in the past. They are 6- to 8-foot lighted pole decorations, featuring Santa Clauses, Christmas trees, and other seasonal ornamentations.

One Incumbent Says He Won't Run

Filing Deadline Nears For City, County School Boards

By LOWELL ATCHLEY
STAFF REPORTER

With about two weeks remaining before the filing deadline, at least once incumbent school board member here says he will not seek re-election.

Joe Dyer, chairman of the Calloway County Board of Education, told The Murray Ledger & Times today that he will not seek a second term on the five-member county policy making board.

Dyer said today, "I have enjoyed working with the members of the Calloway County board and have enjoyed the work with both superintendents (Dr. Jack Rose and William "Bill" Miller). I consider it to be a personal honor to have the people of Calloway County allow me to serve on the county board of education. My reasons for not seeking a second term on the board are personal.

Dyer, 45, called his term on the county school board "rewarding." He indicated "the self satisfaction" in serving on a school board "far outweighs the problems." Dyer, who heads food service operations at Murray State University and represents the third school district, said he has enjoys public service and does not discount seeking public office again.

Meanwhile, a county man, Jerry "Red" Overbey, Route 6, Murray, has filed for the seat Dyer now holds according to Calloway County Court Clerk

Marvin Harris.

The deadline for filing for non-partisan school board offices is not later than Sept. 13—55 days before the General Election, Nov. 7 this year.

Another county school board seat, school district one, currently held by Walter Byars is also up for re-election this year, according to officials. The newspaper attempted to contact Byars early today to question him about his intentions but was unable to talk to him by press time.

In the city, three Murray Board of Education seats are up for re-election and the three incumbents have indicated they will seek another term—Don Henry, who chairs the board, Tom Rushing and Bill Adams.

Although Henry said he is still "contemplating," he indicated, "I'm pretty sure I'll run." Rushing, a former Murray city councilman, indicated earlier this week that he plans to seek another term. Adams indicated today that he will seek another term on the city school board.

City school board members run "at-large."

School boards in Kentucky are generally considered policy making bodies, and according to Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA), they "set general goals for public education programs, provide for school buildings and equipment, manage all school funds and property, employ the superintendent, and on his recommendation, teachers and other personnel, and adopt the school budget."

County school board members whose seats are not up for re-election this year include Ferrell Miller, Lubie Parrish and Billy Joe Kingins; city members include Melissa Easley and Maurice Ryan, a veteran on the city school board.

To be eligible for membership on a school board, a person must be at least 24, have been a citizen of the state at least three years, and be a voter of the district for which he is elected. Harris said today a petition of at least 25 signatures is required for a person to run.

1978 MURRAY HIGH BAND — Murray High "Tiger" Marching Band, shown above, will present its 1978 show for the first time at home at the Murray High-Reidland football game Friday, September 1. This year's field commanders are Craig Thurman and Karen Brandon. The Band will present a variety of music for this year's show including "Pagliacci" from the opera of the same name, "Tomorrow" from the musical Annie, "Malaga" from the concert selection which features the Color Guard, "The Battle of New Orleans" for the Drum feature, and "I Can't Help Falling in Love" as the closer. A spokesman said, "The band and its directors are looking forward to this year's performance for the people of Murray and we sincerely hope that you get as much enjoyment out of watching the show as we will performing for you."

COMMENDATION AWARD — Wanda Rolfe Tasker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Rickman, 1564 Canterbury Drive, Murray, is shown accepting a commendation certificate from Dr. Thomas J. Fitzgerald, associate deputy chief medical director for operations for the Veterans Administration central office in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Tasker was the Memphis hospital's nominee for the agency's Outstanding Handicapped Federal Employees of the Year Award.

Mrs. Tasker has been active in the Governor's Committee On Employment of the Handicapped in the Local Community and has recently been elected to the board of directors of the National Paraplegia Foundation.

Lexington Firm To Include Murray As 'Birthplace Of Radio' In Film On State

By L.J. HORTIN

Murray's claim as the "Birthplace of Radio" will be included in a Kentucky color film now being produced for the state by House of Commons Films of Lexington.

Ed Commons and Tom Brown, executives of that company, were in Murray and Calloway County Aug. 29 to conduct interviews, make pictures and produce film to be shown in Kentucky, in the nation and in foreign countries.

The film will be statewide in content and subject matter, and the Nathan B.

Stubblefield story as inventor of radio will be only a part of the Murray and Calloway County features covered by the project.

Commons and Brown were shown the monument, photos and documents that substantiate Stubblefield's achievements.

Nathan Beverly Stubblefield, born near Murray on Dec. 27, 1860, died March 28, 1928. His exact birthplace is not known. On March 28, 1930, two years after his death, a monument on the Murray State campus was dedicated to Stubblefield as "inventor of radio."

The monument was 10 feet east of Stubblefield's old home site. This property, marked only by a concrete well curb, is now owned by Murray State University. The old residence, which burned years ago, was Stubblefield's home and laboratory.

Is this site the location of the first broadcasting station in the world? Stubblefield's friends believe it is. These friends are hoping some day the old home-broadcasting station may be rebuilt as it was when Nathan Stubblefield said "Hello Rainey" over his wireless telephone (radio) to Rainey T. Wells three quarters of a century ago.

What is Murray's claim? The people here believe Nathan B. Stubblefield was the first person to conceive, invent, construct and demonstrate an electronic device to broadcast and receive sounds, voices, music over considerable distances without intervening wires. It was first known as a "wireless telephone" because there was no word "radio." The automobile was first known as a horseless carriage.

Americans Pay Dearly To Lose Their Fat

The nation's "war on fat" has burgeoned into a $10 billion a year industry because 70 million overweight Americans are willing to do almost anything to shed some pounds, a new report says.

A New York market research firm issued a 260-page report that Americans are spending more money than ever before on appetite suppressants, anti-obesity prescriptions, diet books, mechanical devices, health spas and other items.

The report said that an estimated 50,000 persons die each year "from obesity as a secondary cause" and that women constitute 90 percent of the weight-reducing market.

The report said the over-the-counter weight control market is growing at a rate of 20 percent a year and that its annual volume is $110 million.

Several Bridal Events Are Held To Honor Gale Broach

Miss Gale Broach, bride elect of Bob Cornelson of Scottsboro, Ala., has been honored with several pre-nuptial events.

An evening party was held at the home of Mrs. Kenton Broach with Mrs. Mike Morris as hostess. For the occasion the honoree chose to wear an ivory gauze skirt and blouse. She was presented a corsage of blue and white carnations by the hostess.

The refreshment table was overlaid with white lace covering a blue cloth. An arrangement of blue and white carnations clustered around three blue candles centered the table. A decorated cake with the names, GALE AND BOB, was served along with individual baked treats, nuts, mints, cakes and citrus tea.

The honoree opened the lovely gifts and displayed them. The hostesses presented her with a gift of lingerie.

An afternoon event hosted by Mrs. Graham Feltner, Mrs. Sherwood Potts and Mrs. Herman Darnell was held in the home of Mrs. Feltner.

The honoree and her mother, Mrs. Ray T. Broach, received the guests. For the occasion the honoree chose from her trousseau a blue and white pin stripe skirt and blouse and was presented a corsage of fresh daisies by the hostesses.

Beautiful garden flowers from the Feltner garden centered the refreshment table which was covered with white lace. Guests were served a delicious cheese roll, nuts, mints, cake and punch.

The honoree opened her many lovely gifts, and each guest shared a treasured recipe from their own kitchen with her.

An afternoon tea was held at the Community Room of the Peoples Bank. The hostesses were Mrs. Cody Adams, Mrs. Ralph Darnell, Mrs. Jerry Falwell, Mrs. Ray Karraker, Mrs. Carman Parks, Mrs. Billy Smith, Mrs. J. R. Smith, Mrs. Rex Smith, Mrs. Charles B. Stark, Mrs. Douglas Tucker, and Mrs. Jim Wilson.

Receiving the guests were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Ray T. Broach and the mother of the groom to be, Mrs. Bob Cornelson. Miss Dee Dee Darnell, cousin of the bride-elect, and Miss Kathie Broach, sister of the bride-elect, presided at the guest register.

For the occasion the honoree chose a selection from her trousseau, a blue and brown floral print cotton dress gathered at the waist with a self tie belt. She was presented a corsage of a silk orchid. The mothers of the bridal couple were also presented corsages of beautiful silk roses.

The many lovely gifts were displayed on the gift tables overlaid with yellow and white cloths. The refreshment table held two silver candelabra on either side of a beautiful floral centerpiece arranged in a silver wine cooler.

Individual open faced sandwiches and pastries were served along with fresh melon and fruit served from a melon basket. Further accenting the refreshment table was a fresh Hawaiian pineapple adorned with tasty hors d'oeuvres. Punch and coffee, mints and nuts were served from silver appointments.

The honoree was presented a water pitcher in a pewter pattern of her selection by the gracious hostesses. A Saturday morning brunch was held at the home of Mrs. Otley White for September brides, Miss Broach and Miss Paulette Ross, friends of many years. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Keith Curd, Miss Vickie Bailey, Mrs. Charles Hargrove, Mrs. Ike Allibritten, Mrs. Paul Blalock and Mrs. White.

The honorees and their mothers were presented corsages of a beautiful silk flowers. For the morning occasion Miss Broach wore a coral cotton sundress chosen from her trousseau.

The many lovely gifts were opened and displayed. The two brides-to-be were presented hostesses' gifts of long white peignoir sets. The brunch table was overlaid with a white linen cloth centered with a lovely arrangement of fresh cut flowers. Sausage balls, bran muffins, fruit, cinnamon rolls, fried pies, juice and coffee were served to the guests.

McClure And Belva Vows Solemnized At Church

Miss Debbie Kay McClure

and Mark Allan Belva exchanged vows in a candlelight double ring ceremony by the groom's brother, Dr. Louis Wilburn Belva, Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, August 26, at the Cadiz Baptist Church in Cadiz.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Max McClure of Trigg County. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilburn Belva, Sr. of Morganfield.

Nuptial music was provided by organist, Mrs. Bob Higbee, Cadiz. Vocalist, Mrs. Louis Wilburn Belva, Jr. sang "Evergreen," "You Light Up My Life," "We've Only Just Begun."

A brass walk under arch was used to focalize the candlelight setting. Tea leaf garland entwined the arch with accents of blue roses, pink baby's breath, white daisies and stephanotis. The columns attached to the arch were topped with an arrangement of jumbo fern and matching flowers. Tree candelabrae of nine burning tapers were adorned with floral arrangements also matching the arch. Spiral staircase candelabra, seven-branched, and single hurricane candelabra were also used.

The unity rite was observed with a three-branched gloved candelabra entwined with pink carnations, blue and white poms and baby's breath. Gloved hurricane markers with white satin bows to mark family pews and a white taffeta cloth decorated the aisles.

Bride's Dress

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father and to the altar as the traditional wedding march was played, stopping only to give her Mother a token of her love, a rose. She was lovely in a long gown of silk organza and peau de soie from Bridal Originals. The empire line gown was beautifully detailed featuring a Renaissance neck line and full double sheer sleeves. A band of narrow Venice lace daisies defined the empire waist and formed petal panels on the full skirt. Beautiful daisy motifs of matching silk lace adorned the neckline, skirt and cuffs of the sleeves. The attached chapel length train and hem line of the gown was edged with a narrow band of matching lace medallions. She chose a chapel length veil of double tiered illusion attached to a fision of a Juliette bandeau of Venice lace. The illusion was edged in lace identical to that of the hemline of the gown.

The bride carried a French cascade of assorted white carnations with accents of pink and blue spring blossoms, lavender roses, lily of the valley and baby's breath. White lace streamers fell into loops. Her only jewelry was a diamond drop necklace belonging to her mother. She carried a linen lace handkerchief belonging to her paternal grandmother and her late great grandmother, Mrs. Nancy James Blalock Lovins.

The matron of honor was Mrs. William Rutherford of Bowling Green, and the maid of honor was Terri Lyn McClure, Cadiz, both sisters of the bride. The bridesmaid was Pam Dawson, Herndon.

All the attendants wore identical floor length gowns of qiana. They were a cream beige background print, featuring daisy highlights in dusty rose, russet rose and aqua.

The gentle molded bodices of the gowns extended to the waist line and was covered by two deep flounce ruffles edged in rose picot, spaghetti straps held the shoulders of the gown. A smooth flowing skirt completed the fashion look of the attendants' gowns.

They carried single lavender roses with bows and streamers of eggshell picot ribbon and wore matching roses with baby's breath in their hair.

Best man was Steven Belva of Denver, Colorado, brother of the groom. Joseph Patrick Belva of Beaver Dam, also a brother and Gary Hughes of Cadiz were the groomsmen.

Flower girl was Rachel Anne Belva, Memphis, Tenn., wearing a floor length model in soft rose qiana with spaghetti straps and ruffled flounced bodice.

Lighting the candles and ushering were Dr. Jack Sanders and Clarence Thomas, Cadiz. As the bride and groom exited the church prior to the reception, the bride shared a token of her love, a rose with the groom's mother as part of the ceremony.

Reception

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony, at the Bank of Cadiz Community Room.

The reception table was covered with a hand embroidered pure linen table cloth belonging to the paternal grandmother of the bride, a gift from a friend in Beirut, requiring some one thousand two hundred and fifty two hours to complete. The centerpiece selected for the table was an arrangement of pink carnations, blue and white poms and baby's breath in a silver compote.

Virginia Street of Cadiz and Marci Woodruff of Tallahassee, Fla., served the traditional three-tiered wedding cake decorated with rose daisies and topped with white wedding bells. Sabrina Stroud of Cadiz served the bride and groom in silver champagne goblets as they cut the wedding cake, then filling silver cups with pink raspberry punch served those attending the reception.

Madelyn Hopson of Cadiz, who kept the church guest register, was assisted at the reception by Kelly Sanders in handing out rose and aqua satin rosebuds filled with rice, and scrolls in a gold wedding band with a message from the bride and groom thanking those who found the time in their busy life for sharing the joy of the occasion with them.

Others assisting at the reception were: Mr. Charles Hughes, Mrs. Leroy Merrick, Mrs. Bennie Francis and Mrs. Terry Mitcheson all of Cadiz and Trigg County. After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., and points of interest, the couple will reside at Blue Springs, Route Two.

Rehearsal Dinner

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the groom at the Port O' Call Restaurant.

Candle lighting and floral arrangements of rose pink and aqua daisies interspersed with baby's breath and maiden fern completed the decor. The groom presented gifts to the male wedding attendants.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilburn Belva, Sr., Morganfield, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilburn Belva, Jr., Rachel Anne and Louis III, Memphis, Tenn., Steven Belva, Denver, Colo., Joseph Patrick Belva, Beaver Dam, Mr. and Mrs. John Belva, Madison, Ind., Kim M. Rutherford, Bowling Green, Marci Woodruff, Tallahassee, Fla., Loyd Allen McClure, Peoria, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lassiter, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt McClure all of Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McClure all of Murray, Nils Lassiter, Oak Ridge, Tenn., Mrs. Floyd McClure, Randy McClure, Gary McClure and Shari Tucker, all of New Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Don Jett, Paducah, Lenna Duke, Jana Henson, Mr. Robert S. Jones, Sam Riley, Anita Terry, Andy Harrell, Sandy Ismael, Dee Holzschuh, all of Murray.

Saving Frozen Foods After Power Failure

Q. Mrs. V. B. writes that she lives on a farm and that she and her family keep a reserve supply of food in a deep freezer. As a result of a power failure for several days, the freezer warmed up. She was at a loss as to whether to discard her foods for fear of causing illness in her family, or to try to save at least some of the items. She thinks that she threw away some foods which might have been saved.

She asks for suggestions which might prove helpful to her in the future.

A. Consider moving the freezer to a cold place, such as out-of-doors, if the weather is cold, in the event of another power failure.

If such a spot is available at a reasonable distance, transfer valuable food in locker paper. The transfer may be troublesome, but is safe and may save a valuable supply of food. It can be returned home after the power is restored.

Some larger farms have emergency home generators that can restore a limited amount of power and could keep your freezer cold.

Consider buying dry ice and placing it in your freezer. Be careful to handle it with gloves and proper covering to avoid injury to the skin of your hands.

If a freezer is almost full, the volume of frozen food will help to keep the food compartment colder for a longer period than if it is half full or almost empty. Avoid opening the cooler to see how things are. Such opening allows heat to enter and shortens the duration of coldness. A full cooler can usually keep the contents adequately chilled for a couple of days.

Some foods, such as broths, custards, gravies, and salads, spoil more rapidly than other foods. If ice crystals continue to be present, it generally means that the food has remained sufficiently chilled to be safe. Such crystals can often be located by trying to cut into the meat or other food with a knife. The crystals will grate against the edge of the knife.

Refreezing foods that have partially warmed is safe and does not harm them or impair their nutritive value.

If you have a doubt about a particular food, it is safer to discard it and avoid the possible danger of food poisoning.

These suggestions may help you to save some or all of your foods should your home have a power failure in the future.

Basic Hopes Stay Same

The name chosen by the new pope — John Paul I — is generally assumed to be symbolic of his two immediate predecessors, John XXIII and Paul VI, and of a continuity in church policy. Thus church policy at the moment (and perhaps for years) is expected to follow the course set out by Popes John and Paul, of seeing Christian reunification, of pursuing a dialogue with non-Christians, of speaking for peace and social justice.

While predictions must always be cautious, on several other matters John Paul I is seen likely to continue the Vatican's strong opposition to artificial contraception, married priests and the ordination of women. A personable man, he can also be firm: as cardinal-patriarch of Venice he once disbanded a youth group and dismissed a priest supporting the legalization of divorce in Italy. And in 1976, he deplored Catholics running on the Communist ticket in Italy's national elections. Several administrative steps already taken seem affirmations of Paul's policy.

To Catholics and non-Catholics, the election of a new pope is first an event of pageantry and mystery. Ultimately, it becomes an occasion for reflecting on the state of Christianity.

The papacy itself is one of those cornerstones of religion that people look to as a sign of stability in a very unstable world. But the main question is whether they look to it as much as they used to — and by extension to church, any church, for the care and nourishment of the spirit.

Commenting on John Paul I, the Rev. Andrew Greeley observes that during his first blessing the piazza of St. Peter's was half-empty, that a short distance away people went about their business seemingly untouched by the event. And yet if this indicates disinterest by others, or perhaps a falling away, there is also the Holy Shroud, which some contend is the image of Christ and which may draw three million pilgrims to view it on display in Turin, Italy. "The display," said one church official, "is just an opportunity for faith and belief in times in which people need to believe something."

Faith and belief. In an ever-changing world, basic hopes stay the same. The role for the pope, the role for other religious leaders, is spiritual example and shelter, not only for those who have found faith but for those whose lives are meaningless without it — who, deep down, hear the same yearning voices and desire the same light.

A Sticker Question

1. Received your official Kentucky insurance sticker yet?
2. Are you still trying to figure out what to do with it?
3. Have you read the instructions accompanying the sticker?
4. Do you wish I'd get on with this column?

Probably the three most often heard comments in the state today are: "Ho hum. What Democrat is running for governor now?" "Whatever happened to Louie Nunn?" and "Does that stupid insurance sticker go on the front or the rear of my car?"

The latest episode in what will go down in Kentucky history books as the Great Kentucky Insurance Sticker Question of 1978 goes something like this: State bureaucrats have now enacted a 30 day grace period allowing motorists time to get their insurance stickers on their cars.

The requirement for displaying the stickers should have gone into effect today, but some insurance companies have failed to deliver. But you still have to have liability coverage, bureaucrats say. As it stands now, the sticker goes on the front or the rear of your car. But a couple of weeks ago, a Frankfort bureaucrat decided the sticker should go on the front, contrary to the original law which said the stickers go on the rear. That decision raised the hackles on some legislators, particularly the guys who wrote the law. So now the stickers can go on either the front or back—take your pick.

I question (1) The lawmakers who drafted the law, (2) The bureaucrats who read and interpreted the law, and (3) The guy who wrote the instructions on how to stick the silly decal on your car.

First, the law. I'm not a lawyer. Just an old country boy raised in the hills of East Tennessee who learned to write his ABCs on the backside of a hoe. But, the writers of this law shouldn't have been so specific. If they wanted the sticker on the rear of Kentucky cars they should have said "the front."

Second, the bureaucrats. Apparently they did not have access to a hoe to write their ABCs on when growing up. Third, the instructions: "Sew. 'Clean And Dry Inside Of Windshield.' After doing that, I had to knock off the remainder of the day to rest. 'Carefully Peel Sticker From Back Side Of This Card.' Easier said than done. I fumbled with the blasted thing for 20 minutes, finally giving it to my cat to see if she could peel it off for me. She did.

"Place Sticker On Lower Left Hand Corner Of Inside Of Windshield. Be Sure White Label Stays With Sticker." Disregard this instruction. Stick it where you want. And, what white label?

After studying the issue, I figure the bureaucrats in Frankfort fouled up by not opening trade with Japan and writing up a nice, fat service contract with a Japanese firm to write the law and the instructions for the stickers.

A friend of mine with the Japanese Toy and Game Instruction Writing Company, Ltd., Osaka, a fellow named O Wow, has sent me a sample set of instructions that with a few revisions can be used in Kentucky next year.

I took the liberty to revise the instructions slightly and they read like this:

1. Approach car with keys in hand.
2. Look underneath, in front and back of car to make sure it is still intact. Clean and dry inside and outside of windshield.
3. With an unopened Kentucky Insurance Sticker in hand, insert keys in ignition and start car.
4. Drive to Frankfort, being careful on the way.

Washington Today

After Proposition 13

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. says he can hear the train coming and it won't be stopped. The cargo is a tax rebellion that looms as a major issue in the autumn election campaign.

Brown, a tardy passenger who at first opposed California's Proposition 13 but sometimes sounds as though it was his idea, was warning his fellow governors that the voters are going to insist on spending cuts and tax relief.

The topic was paramount when the governors held their annual get-together in Boston. One of their responses, sponsored by Brown, was a resolution asking that Washington foot the bill from now on when the federal government initiates programs that cost the states money.

The governors agreed the same rule should apply when states take action that hits municipal treasuries.

Of course the money has to come from the taxpayer in the end, be it through the property taxes that Californians ordered cut, or from state or federal taxes. Shifting the bills may not be much of an answer to the sentiments that surfaced in Proposition 13.

Mervin D. Field, a veteran public opinion analyst in California, suggests that the voters are looking for substantial cuts in government.

"It seems clear that Proposition 13 presages similar types of action in other states because it represents a middle class reaction to the impact of the continuing steady decline of the dollar coupled with an increasing proportion of income going to pay for government services," Field writes.

In the Journal "Public Opinion," published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, Field says the voters would like to see some people fired from government jobs.

Even that underscores the problems built into tax rebellion. Unemployment compensation is a government program.

Field writes that there is considerable evidence to support the idea that California was only the beginning of a nationwide reaction against high taxes.

Field suggests that this could have an impact "on all of the liberal social programs inaugurated under FDR in the 1930s and continuing through LBJ's Great Society era of the 1960s."

He describes it as a supply and demand situation.

"During the past decades, politicians have tended to respond mostly to the demand side of the government services market equation," he says.

"On the other side of the equation, the supply side, taxpayers have until now had a much harder time making a concerted stand against increasing tax burdens."

"Proposition 13 has shown the power of aroused taxpayers, and there could very well be a fundamental shift," Field says, in which politicians will cater to the people who supply the taxes.

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I have always worked for the federal government and thus I am covered under the Civil Service Retirement Program. I have heard different people talk about an annuity with survivor's benefit and an annuity without survivor's benefits. I think I know what these are, but I am not exactly sure. Can you explain each of these annuities and give advice to which one a person should take? — P.M.

These two types of Civil Service Annuities are exactly what they mean. An "annuity with survivor benefits to a widower" is a reduced annuity to the retiring employee and a survivor annuity to the wife or husband to whom the employee was married at time of death. An "annuity without survivor benefit" is an annuity which is only payable during the lifetime of an employee.

A married employee is automatically granted the annuity with survivor benefits to widow or widower unless he or she requests, in writing, the annuity without survivor benefit.

If you are married, it would be a good idea to take the "annuity with survivor benefit" to help your spouse if you should predecease them. If your spouse dies before you, then you can have your annuity changed to an "annuity without survivor benefit."

HEARTLINE: I am going to be 65 years old in May of this year. At that time I am going to start drawing my Social Security benefits. My next door neighbor retired last year and he received a large check when he started to draw. I was wondering how I can go about doing this. Can you help me? — G.S.

When your neighbor retired, he must have taken Retroactive Social Security benefits for the 12 months prior to his retirement. Since the passage of the new Social Security bill on Dec. 15, 1977, this is no longer possible in most cases.

Under the old law, a person was permitted to elect to receive benefits for up to 12 months prior to the month in which they filed an application. If such months were prior to age 65, benefits were actually reduced. The new bill will eliminate retroactive benefits where permanently reduced benefits would occur. It does not apply to cases where the benefits are disability-related or where unreduced dependent's benefits are involved. This became effective with all applications filed after Jan. 1, 1978.

HEARTLINE: I have just turned 65 years old and I am now on Medicare. I have heard that I am only covered for 90 lifetime days in the hospital. Is this true? — T.J.

No, this is not true. You have up to 90 days of hospital coverage during a benefit period. A benefit period begins when you go into the hospital and it ends when you leave the hospital and are at home for at least 60 days. For example, if you go into the hospital for 25 days and then are released and have been at home for 60 days, your benefit period has ended and you will then be eligible for a new benefit period and 90 more days of coverage.

For people who do not understand Medicare, Heartline has written a very simplified book. "Heartline's Guide to Medicare" can be received by sending $1.75 to 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

Consequences Of The Undisciplined Life

The Epistle to the Romans deals with man's need of a righteousness which he does not possess, and which he is incapable of producing. If man is to come into possession of righteousness, it must be imputed to him.

The Undisciplined Life Invites God's Wrath

Romans 1:18-32

Man has the choice between the righteousness of God, which was revealed in the gift of His Son, and the wrath of God which must fall upon those who refuse to believe on Christ. If a man refuses to accept the righteousness of God, which is offered to him as a free gift, then there is nothing else available to him except its counterpart, which is the wrath of God.

Paul tells us that the two forms of sin which God hates are ungodliness and unrighteousness. The former is the absence of conformity to the will of God, or living as if there were no God, and the latter is living in the wrong relationship to God and to one's fellowmen. Unless ungodliness and unrighteousness are confessed, forgiven, and forsaken, the wrath of God will abide upon those who are guilty of them.

Inasmuch as God made man, and the things which are around him, He certainly has different claims upon him — the claim of creation, preservation, and redemption. Since God has revealed himself to man through creation, nature, conscience, the Scriptures, and Christ, no depth of moral degradation can ever completely blot out man's knowledge of God.

The Undisciplined Life Invites God's Abandonment

Romans 1:4-5

As a result of their willful plunge into idolatry, and into the depths of sin and shame, God eventually withdrew His restraint from the people and delivered them to the inevitable consequences of the sinful course which they had chosen. When God withdrew His restraints from those whom He left to their polluted nature, they did so many scandalous and disgraceful things, and became worse and worse. His action in abandoning them to judicial hardness is described in the words, God gave them over to uncleanness, meaning He allowed them to dishonor, injure, and disgrace themselves. This predicament was self-inflicted.

The Undisciplined Life May Be Corrected

II Timothy 2:21-26

We are living in an era when multitudes are clamoring for absolute liberation from all restrictions placed on their manner of life, and the devastating consequences of the prevailing permissiveness are certainly evident to all close observers. It is an undeniable fact that all Christians are not living as the Lord would have them to live.

Knowing that his beloved Timothy was not immune to temptation, and that he was at that stage in life when seductive influences might lead him astray, Paul wrote this letter to him and told him what kind of a man he wanted him to be and what he wanted him to do. Paul deemed it proper to admonish his dear friend to be on guard against the subtle temptations of the flesh, and also to commend those splendid qualities which grow out of a heart that is truly committed to Christ.

Aware that the undisciplined life results in a Christian's yielding to Satan's temptations to indulge in sin and thereby render himself ineffective in the service of Christ, Paul urged Timothy to flee from some things and to follow others. In order that he might be truly useful to Christ, Paul requested him to run away from "youthful lusts," which may not have been sins of the flesh alone, but were lusts which characterized youth in particular, but also might be felt by one who was not a youth in the strictest sense of the term.

Knowing that God could not put an unclean vessel to an honorable use, Paul besought Timothy to thrust aside whatever might compromise his testimony or diminish his influence. He was hopeful that Timothy would pursue righteousness and various other things which would please the Lord, that he would refuse to discuss insincere and foolish questions or subjects about which he knew little or nothing, that he would avoid useless contention and needless controversies, and that he would cultivate the gentle art of persuasion in an earnest attempt to influence people to forsake the error of their ways and to walk in God's ways.

In the case of any who may have been lured into the snare of Satan and held captive by him, Timothy was exhorted to do everything possible to rescue them with and through God's enabling grace and strength.

Bible Thought

And Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord. — Exodus 14:13.

When we champion a righteous cause, we should never be afraid. Instead we stand firm. For if we do this, we too will see the salvation of the Lord.

Debut Of Coach Mike Gottfried

Murray State-Semo To Clash Saturday

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor
New faces and promising matchups provide an extra tinge of excitement as the Murray State Racers open their season schedule against Southeast Missouri at Roy Stewart Stadium Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

As always, there's the excitement of opening day, with Murray trying to improve on its 31-19-2 first-game record. And the Racers will attempt to make it 14 wins in 15 games against Semo.

But Saturday also marks the debut of head Coach Mike Gottfried, 33, an offensive coordinator at the University of Arizona last season, as the Ohio Valley Conference's youngest head coach.

And two battles between opposing players merit extra attention.

Fullback Danny Lee

Johnson, who led the Racers in rushing last season with 565 yards on 122 carries, will attempt to outduel a Semo sophomore with even more impressive freshman credentials.

Bill White, a 5-11, 170-pound tailback, didn't even start in last season's Murray-Semo battle (won by Murray 13-6). But after earning a first-team spot later in the season, he picked up 747 yards on 116 carries. White was a big reason Semo finished with a 7-3-1 mark — co-champions of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Perhaps the best matchup will come on the offensive line, an area on the field many fans rarely bother to notice.

Vernon Broadnax, the Racers' 6-6, 410-pound offensive tackle, may well be up against his toughest matchup all season. He'll face Alex Clinton, a 6-3, 227-pound All-America candidate at defensive tackle. Clinton was an all-conference selection last season.

"I told Vernon that he would improve through experience as the season progressed," Gottfried said. "But he may be up against his toughest assignment with no college experience."

That Murray offensive line could be the key to a Racer victory.

Experience lies in center Dennis Waddell, a 6-2 senior, and backup Cecil Wolberton, at 6-3, also a senior.

At one guard spot will be 6-1, 210-pound Dan Hutchinson, a '77 all-conference performer.

The other three line spots will be manned by players with no college playing time.

Tackles will be Broadnax and Tim Wheeler, a 6-0, 230-pound freshman from Erlanger, Ky. At the other tackle spot will be Reggie Pope, a 225-pound senior.

David Thomas, who led the Racers in receiving last season with 29 catches for 407 yards, will be at tight end, while Jeff Braaten, who had 19 catches in '77, will be at split end.

In the backfield will be senior Mike Dickens at quarterback and Doug Shelton, who moved from the defensive secondary, at wingback.

Johnson will be at fullback, and Zach Issacs, a 6-1 freshman from Las Cruces, N.M., will start at tailback. Lindsey Hudspeth is currently the No. 2 man at that spot.

Jesse Lopez, a Semo's highly-touted quarterback, won't start because of a sprained ankle. His replacement will be Doug Beard, a 5-10 sophomore.

The Racer defensive secondary, another major concern of the Murray coaches, returns only one starter — cornerback Roy Hackley, a preseason All-OVC pick. At the other corner — will be William Lewis, primarily a punt returner last season.

Safeties will be senior Roger Rushing, moved from quarterback, and sophomore Bud Foster.

Two tackles rated as among the best in the conference will spearhead the defensive line. Bruce Martin, a senior from Owensboro, will be at left tackle, while Chuck Marquess, a senior from Lake Worth, Fla., will be at right tackle.

Freshman Kenny Woods will start at noseguard, and Bill Shannon and David Reagan will be at the ends. Shannon is a 6-4 senior from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., while Reagan, chosen as the most improved player on the Racer squad after spring practice, is a 6-1 senior from Paris, Tenn.

Wes Furgerson, who averaged 39.4 yards a kick last season, will handle the punting chores. Furgerson started slowly in practice due to a bad back, but is apparently healthy.

Jim Dunnaway, a freshman from South Shore, Ky., will do the place-kicking, and should see some action at fullback this season.

Murray State officials report that plenty of reserved bleacher ($4) and general admission ($3) tickets are still available for the game.

The contest will be broadcast locally over WNBC-AM and WAAW-FM radio in Murray, as well as WDXR-AM in Paducah. Three other stations — WYMC in Mayfield, WFUL in Fulton and WKOA in Hopkinsville — will carry selected games throughout the season.

Gayle Sayers (background), former NFL running back great, took time from his post as Southern Illinois University athletic director to talk with Racer gridgers. In center is Danny Lee Johnson. Sayers and Joe Gottfried, brother of Mike Gottfried and the Saluki head basketball coach, visited the Racers Thursday.

Tech Picked To Top OVC

By the Associated Press
Don Wade is one of those football coaches who can see the dark clouds no matter how bright the silver lining.

According to his fellow coaches in the Ohio Valley Conference, Wade's Tennessee Tech team is favored to take the league title. But Wade isn't looking that far ahead. For the moment, he is concerned about the disaster he insists awaits his team in Saturday's season opener at Nicholls State.

Saturday's game at Thibodaux, La., is one of three involving OVC teams. In the others, Murray State hosts Southeast Missouri and Middle Tennessee calls on powerful Tennessee State at Nashville.

"Last year, they (Nicholls State) beat a team that beat us, and that's enough to worry me," said Wade. "Usually you can't tell much about a team by watching a film that's a year old. But they obviously had a super defense and they have everybody back."

"Last Saturday, we scrimmaged the best against the worst the worst, and the worst beat the ears off the best."

Racer fans hope to see a good deal of Violet Cactus in Roy Stewart Stadium this season. Cactus will circle the field each time Murray State scores. The Racers open their season Saturday against Southeast Missouri.

Foster's Homer, Single Lead Cincy Past St. Louis

ST. LOUIS — Slugger George Foster, one of the few Cincinnati Reds not affected by a season-long power drought, hopes the Big Red Machine is ready to shift out of its doldrums and into high gear.

"Nobody was hitting until tonight, and then everybody hit," said Foster after contributing a solo home run and an RBI single to an 11-6 Reds triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night.

"I hope it continues this way the rest of the season," he continued. "We know we can score runs, but the thing is we have to keep doing it. We could get on a hot streak. When we're swinging the bats well, nobody can beat us." The slump-ridden Reds, who started the night 7½ games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West, moved a halfgame closer on a 14-hit attack.

Foster clubbed his homer, his 31st of the campaign, to trigger a seven-run avalanche in the second inning. He later added a single for his 98th RBI as the Reds sent 11 batters to the plate.

Crimson Tide Open Against Nebraska

By the Associated Press
Alabama, voted No. 1 in the Associated Press college football preseason poll, starts its 1978 season

Saturday night against No. 10-ranked Nebraska. The game between the two giants will be played at Birmingham, Ala., where Alabama hopes to get revenge for last year's 31-24 Nebraska victory — the only loss the Crimson Tide suffered.

Other night contests

Saturday will find Arkansas State at Tulsa, Western Carolina at East Carolina, West Texas State vs. Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss., and Texas-El Paso at North Texas State.

In day games Saturday, Texas-Arlington travels to Drake, Eastern Michigan is at Northern Michigan and Southern Mississippi is at Richmond.

On Sunday, Utah State will play Idaho State in Osaka, Japan.

Yankees Pull Within 6 1/2

The Associated Press While the Red Sox relaxed on an off-day and enjoyed their standing atop the American League East, their four pursuers worked at cutting into Boston's lead.

Three of the chasers would have been better off resting Thursday. Only the New York Yankees were able to gain any ground, shaving Boston's margin to 6 1/2 games with a 6-2 verdict over Baltimore. The Orioles fell 12 games off the pace while thirdplace Milwaukee split a pair with Cleveland, winning 1-0 then losing 12-6.

and dropped 8 1/2 games out. Detroit lost to Minnesota 4-1 and is fourth, 11 back.

"There's going to be a pennant race," said Yankees outfielder Lou Piniella, who homered and singled in New York's seventh consecutive victory and 12th in the last 15 games. "It's going to be tough, no question. But if we play well, we've got plenty of time."

The Yankees have 31 games left - seven against Boston - while the Red Sox have 30 to play.

The 6 1/2-game deficit is the closest New York has come since Aug. 11.

Brewers 1-6, Indians 0-12 Milwaukee's Mike Caldwell, 17-8, threw a six-hitter to outduel Mike Paxton, who had a three-hitter as the Brewers won the opener. Ben Oglivie's second-inning home run provided the scoring.

"I've been consistent with my pitches," said Caldwell. "I haven't thrown a lot of hanging breaking balls. I've got 17 victories with a month to go. If my arm stays healthy, there's no reason I won't win 20." "The guy pitched well," said Paxton, 9-8, of Caldwell.

Eagles' Chapman Optimistic

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Returning a veteran offensive line, nine defensive starters and quarterback Phil Simms, who led the Ohio Valley Conference in passing and total offense last year, Morehead State Coach Wayne Chapman is understandably optimistic about the 1978 football season.

"I feel good about this season," said the third-year coach. "Our kids have grown up a lot and I believe they have a good attitude about winning."

The Eagles, 2-6-2 overall last year and 2-4-1 in the OVC, jumped off to a 2-1-1 start before falling on hard times. In a three-week stretch, the Eagles lost to Tennessee Tech 24-22, tied Western Kentucky 20-20 and lost to East Tennessee 37-34.

"We played about three games there in the middle that we should have won," Chapman said. "That kind of got us down."

Chapman has a veteran at every position on the offensive line, but can afford no injuries.

"We're going to have to rely upon young kids to come in there," he said. They will be protecting Simms, who passed for 2,041 yards and 15 touchdowns last year.

Chapman said the passing game should also be potent this year, with receivers like 5-foot-7 Dorron Hunter, who caught 36 passes for 687 yards last year as a freshman. He also led the OVC in punt-return average and was sixth in kick-off returns.

"We've worked him at tailback, both last fall and this spring," said Chapman, "but he's not that big a kid. By next year he might be stronger."

Competition has been fierce at the other wide receiver position, where Kenny Turner beat out Larry Campassi, the OVC's second-leading receiver last year, in spring practice.

Starting fullback Norman Letcher returns, with freshmen Dwight Yarn and Tony Burton competing at tailback.

Of the nine returning defensive starters, most have played two seasons.

Calloway Frosh Lose 7-0

A fourth-down, 10-yard touchdown pass was the only score as Fulton City defeated the Calloway County freshman 7-0 at the North Elementary field Thursday.

The contest was the season opener for both squads.

That eventual game-winning TD came midway through the second quarter, and was most of the offense generated by both teams for the day.

Calloway could manage only one first down for the contest, that on a complete pass by Roger Dawson in the second quarter.

"We obviously just never got untracked on offense," said assistant Coach Billy Nix. "But I was certainly proud of our defense."

Nix praised noseguard Don Hargrove and linebackers Kevin Kernell and Kirk Starks. Other defensive players Nix felt played well were tackles Rodney Horschell and Shawn Jones, ends David Tipton and Roger Tebbetts, cornerbacks Roger Dawson and Brad Miller, and safeties Kyle Cardinal and Tony Workman.

Greg Darnell didn't play because of illness.

The Laker frosh did have Fulton pinned deep in its own territory just before the first half, but Calloway was penalized for roughing the kicker after a punt, giving Fulton an automatic first down.

"That was about the only chance we had to get in good field position," Nix said. The first-year Laker squad travels to Heath Sept. 7 for the first of three straight road games. They will host Ballard Memorial Sept. 28.

Your Individual Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, SEPT-EMBER 2, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
You are in the mood to go off on tangents and to ignore present affairs just when more attention is called for. Don't let yourself down this way.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
Your intuition tells you that a familiar situation requires special handling to keep you out of a tight spot, but don't let your action be made in haste.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21) ♊
An unusual idea could spark a new approach to career matters. This is a day to expand your business contacts in a well-planned manner.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23) ♋
Keen competition will not discourage you because of your confidence in your own ability. Make the best of your many fine talents.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
Smaller advances may be more rewarding than one giant leap forward. The footing may be surer and the demands more easily met.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
Look for someone outside your normal circle of friends to help with a venture, but make certain that there is a similarity of outlook.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
Self-discipline is one of your strongest traits, and it should be used now to overcome present tendencies toward lethargy and inertia.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏
Not the time to irritate others without ample reason. It may be better to hold up on decisions and wait for added factors to appear.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
A discussion of ambitions, goals, plans and ideas for the future can be held with associates for a long-term benefit.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
Do not take any action in a pressing situation until you are certain you have all the facts because a mistake cannot be easily undone.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒

Jealousy Curber Is Hard To Find

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 28 and my husband is 33. We've been married for six years, and our life would be beautiful if it weren't for his jealousy, which is so intense it borders on insanity!

He has tried everything from psychiatry to prayer meetings, but nothing has helped.

I have never given him any cause to doubt me, but for some reason he doesn't trust me out of his sight. The only thing I can think of that would give him complete peace of mind is a chastity belt!

Will you please tell me where I can get one? I know they haven't been used since the Middle Ages, but there must be one around somewhere. Or perhaps someone who works in metals could make one for me. Whatever the price, it will be worth it.

Please rush your answer to me. This is no joke.

SYLVIA IN GREENWICH

DEAR SYLVIA: The only chastity belts I have ever seen are in museums. But if there are any around for sale, or if I hear of a metalsmith who is willing to fashion one for you, I'll let you know.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and overweight, but everyone tells me I have a pretty face. I've had only two dates in my life, and you just can't imagine how much I'd like to have a boyfriend.

One night at a school hop one of the most popular boys in school took an interest in me. I was in heaven. He offered to take me home and we parked on the way and he kissed me. It was wonderful. We kissed a lot, and finally I got scared and made him stop.

He said he wanted to see me again, but next time he didn't intend to stop at a kiss. He told me to get wise, that any fat girl can be popular if she will go all the way. I was shocked and asked him to take me right home.

He told me to think it over and call him when I changed my mind. That was two months ago, and I have been thinking it over. I don't want to be a bad girl, but I want a boyfriend. Should I pay the price?

FAT AND LONELY

DEAR FAT: The price might be more than you're prepared to pay. That boy wants to use you. "Fat girls can be popular," he says, "if they will go all the way."

Brilliant! So can THIN girls, with the kind of boys who use girls, and then go on to fresher game.

He is not for you. And neither is any boy who feeds you that kind of line.

(P.S. Please look into Overeaters Anonymous. They're terrific for girls with your problem.)

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend went to a bridal shower that was held in the home of another girl she barely knew.

While she was there, someone stole $50 from her coat pocket. That was all the money she had. (I've lent her some money so she can buy groceries this week.)

When my friend told her hostess that she had been ripped off, all the hostess did was say she was very sorry.

Don't you think the hostess should have offered to replace the money?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: The hostess, in giving a shower for a friend, may not have known all the girls her friend invited. Therefore, the hostess could hardly be held liable for the loss. The moral: Take no chances; always keep your cash with you.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Callers Harass Witness To Pedestrian Death

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. X, one of the witnesses to a hit-and-run death on Aug. 19, has received five telephone calls threatening her and her family with harm unless she retracts statements made to police.

She said the callers, sometimes a man and at other times a woman, told her that if she didn't retract her statements "my face would look like Mr. Dohrmann's."

Frank Dohrmann, her 83-year-old neighbor, was struck and killed by an auto as he apparently pushed a child out of the car's path.

The vehicle left the scene and two hours later, police charged Mickey Trusty, 20, with murder. His case has been continued until Oct. 12 in Felony Court.

Mrs. X was one of several witnesses whose names went into an accident report compiled by Jefferson County police but her name never appeared in news accounts of the incident.

Mrs. X, asking that her identity be kept anonymous to prevent further harassment, said the threatening calls all came during two days last week and then stopped.

She took four of the calls and the fifth was answered by her 14-year-old daughter who turned the telephone over to her mother after the caller asked for her.

In the last call, Mrs. X said the caller was able to describe her daily routine, the color of her car and the hours that her husband was at work.

That was the call, she said, that persuaded her to go to county police.

"When you get threats against your kids, you don't ignore them. You think about it," she said.

She asked police how anyone could get her name off the accident report and was told "that wouldn't be too hard, that's just about anyone could get in these (police) records."

Because the information about witnesses is in an accident report, it is open to public inspection but anyone asking to look at such a report is supposed to sign a slip of paper.

A clerk in the records office said the only persons who signed to look at the report of the Dohrmann accident were an insurance agent and a reporter.

The clerk said it would be impossible for anyone to see the report without signing but Bob Yates, a county police spokesman, said the records office is always open, even though clerks are on duty only during the day.

Mrs. X said none of the other witnesses has been bothered and she added, "I'm scared. But if they think they are going to frighten me and make me not testify...they might as well give up."

Postal Mediation Begins Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what may be the final effort to avoid an illegal mail strike, the Postal Service and three unions representing more than a half-million postal workers are returning to the bargaining table for 15 more days of talks.

The new round of negotiations beginning today with the help of a seasoned labor trouble-shooter, James J. Healy, as mediator is the latest chapter in a contract dispute that began four and one half months ago.

Meanwhile, lawyers for both sides were due in federal court to argue on whether a judge's restraining order against a postal strike should be upgraded to an injunction. Union leaders, have not backed down from strike threats because of the restraining order.

In the new talks, the unions are expected to seek improvement of the 19.5 percent increases in wages and cost-of-living allowances contained in an earlier agreement which postal rank-and-file workers rejected. This money package is substantially below what coal miners and railroad workers have won this year.

Postal management is expected to try to rid itself of the no-layoff requirement it reluctantly accepted on the last day of the original three-month bargaining period. Postal managers would like to be able to lay off workers during periods when mail volume is low.

On the eve of the new talks, a union source said, "I don't see that there can be any give on the no-layoff clause."

Since the April 20 opening of talks there have been two crises when a possible strike was imminent. On July 21, five hours after the first strike deadline expired, a tentative settlement was reached that appeared to end the strike threat — but it was rejected by union members.

The second crisis was ended Monday when the Postal Service agreed to go back to the bargaining table until Sept. 16. The unions agreed to binding arbitration by the end of that period if there is no agreement.

Healy, a Harvard professor with long experience in labor-management mediation, was called in to try to settle the dispute, replacing chief federal mediator Wayne L. Horvitz, who selected him.

It is Healy who will become an arbitrator and decide any unresolved issues after Sept. 16.

However, the possibility of a nationwide mail strike remains. Any agreement during the new round will be subject to ratification by union members, the same hurdle the earlier agreement failed to clear.

In addition, leaders of the two largest postal unions are authorized to call a strike if they do not win "substantial improvement" over the tentative pact that was rejected.

Postal strikes are illegal, a fact mentioned repeatedly by Postmaster General

Two Bound Over To Grand Jury

Calloway County District Judge Sid Easley has bound two over to the September Grand Jury and scheduled a preliminary hearing today for another, following proceedings in court earlier this week.

Bound over to the September Grand Jury following preliminary hearings here are Jerry Hamman, charged with first degree rape, and Mark McFarland, charged with seven counts of forgery in the second degree, burglary in the third degree and possession of marijuana, according to district court officials.

A preliminary hearing for Keith Downey, charged with aiding and abetting second degree armed robbery is expected today.

In other district court action earlier this week, the district judge appointed a public defender for John C. Turner, charged by Murray Police with burglary.

In traffic court proceedings, the judge sentenced Tom Copeland to 90 days in the county jail for driving under the influence, 90 days for failure to stop and render aid, he dismissed a driving on a revoked license charge on the presentation of a valid license, and he ordered the defendant to make restitution to the owner of an auto damaged in a traffic incident.

The judge dismissed a reckless driving charge against Gary Cunningham, but fined him $80 for speeding, amended an eluding police charge to disorderly conduct and fined him $250 plus $27.50 court costs on that charge, gave the defendant 30 days in jail suspended on the condition the defendant make restitution for damage done to a Murray Police cruiser.

A fourth union, the 38,000-member National Association of Rural Letter Carriers, is not involved in the new talks.

August Prices Offer Some Relief

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

August brought a little bit of relief to consumers struggling to make both ends meet at the grocery store, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. The cost of a selected list of products dropped by an average of more than 1 percent at the stores surveyed.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest survey showed general declines in regular prices last month as well as a number of special sales. In Providence, R.I., for example, the regular price of coffee at the checklist store declined from $3.05 a pound at the start of August to $2.95 a pound today. Shoppers taking advantage of a pre-Labor Day sale at the store could buy coffee for $2.19 a pound.

The AP found that the marketbasket total increased at the checklist store in five cities during August, up an average of 1.9 percent. The bill decreased in eight cities — including Providence — down an average of 3.1 percent.

On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the 13 checklist stores was 1.2 percent lower at the start of September than it was a month earlier. During July, in contrast, the marketbasket bill rose an average of half a percent.

The August decrease was not enough to offset earlier rises in food costs. Comparing today's prices to those at the start of 1978, the AP found the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores had increased an average of 5.1 percent.

The ups and downs of retail grocery prices this year generally can be traced to ups and downs in supplies. Beef prices, for example, rose sharply because there fewer cattle came to market. Coffee prices dropped because of an abundant supply of green beans.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

Council

wife," Brandon said, "... a lever to get the court system to remove the restrictions from the deed."

"I feel like this body (the council) could be drawn into litigation to prove the validity of its actions," Brandon added.

At the request of Mayor Henley, city attorney J. William Phillips explained to the council members the matters they should consider in making their decision. Phillips said that in order for the council to find in favor of the zoning change the members must agree that "the original zoning classification given to the property was inappropriate or improper" or that "there have been major changes of an economic, physical, or social nature within the area involved which were not anticipated in the community's comprehensive plan and which have substantially altered the basic character of such area."

The two attorneys involved in the debate took differing views of what actually comprises the area that should be considered in determining the changes described by Phillips. Sanders said that the area to be considered should only involve that area east of 12th Street lying south of Glendale Road.

Hurt, however, argued that the area to be considered should be extended to the west side of 12th and should include the expansion of Uncle Jeff's Shopping Center, the Holiday Inn and other commercial developments in Murray's southern business district.

In his final appeal before the council vote, Brandon urged the members to be "consistent."

"I'm asking for the same thing you did when you protected other residents on the south side of me when I was turned down before," Brandon said. He was referring to council action in 1972 which stopped a proposed transaction that would have led to the location of a used car operation between Brandon's home and Riverwood Subdivision.

"If you want to zone all my property back to Riverwood commercial, fine," Brandon said, "but please don't take my property in little chips."

"We are not asking you to pick out one lot," Hurt replied, "... all we're asking is that zoning already on the (Taylor's) lot be extended to the boundary line."

Earlier in the meeting, Koenen, who presented the Planning Commission's recommendation to the council, said "unfortunately, we have a very weak planning commission."

"There's a feeling of 'let's pass this thing on to the council,'" Koenen said, indicating that he felt like the matter should have been finalized in the commission before ever coming to the council.

In a final appeal for the council to turn down the proposal, Sanders described the property in question as being shaped like the head of an axe. "Once you put a handle in the axe," Sanders said, "it will chop southerly to Riverwood Subdivision and to South Ninth."

Voting in favor of the proposed rezoning were council members Marshall Jones, W. R. Furches, Billy Balentine, Ruby Hale and Dr. C. C. Lowry. Voting against the proposal were members Stephen Yarbrough, Martha Sammons, Dr. J. D. Outland, Koenen and Dave Willis. Councilman J. H. Nix, an employee of Taylor Chevrolet abstained from voting and councilman Dick George was absent from the meeting.

Other Business

In other business at last night's meeting, the council:

— Enacted an ordinance rezoning lots at the corner of Whitnell and Story Ave. from residential to business and from residential to professional office classifications;

— Approved a revised ordinance setting up a Human Rights Commission in the city;

— Approved on first reading or-finances adopting the 1977 edition of the Standards of Safety and setting "fire limits" in business, industrial, hospital and university districts within the city;

— Approved the changing of the name of that portion of Plainview Drive that runs between Holiday and Keenland to Perrin Drive;

— Approved a contract between the city, Har-Ken Oil Company and Texas Gas that, if approved by the FPCC, will allow the city to purchase and store natural gas in a field presently owned by Har-Ken;

— Approved changing the next regular meeting of the council from Sept. 14 to Wednesday, Sept. 6, at 5:30 p.m.

Jobless Rate Down, 5.9 In August

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment declined to 5.9 percent in August, the second time it has dipped below 6 percent this year, as more women and teen-agers found jobs, the Labor Department reported today.

The drop from the July unemployment level of 6.2 percent gave the Carter administration and the public their first favorable economic news of the week following several days of generally dismal developments. These included a report pointing to a possible slowdown in economic growth.

The Labor Department said total employment increased in August by 160,000 jobs to a total of 94.5 million, while unemployment dropped by 225,000 to just under 6 million.

The August unemployment rate was the second lowest of the year, bettered only by June's 5.7 percent, a figure that was said to be artificially low because of statistical problems.

Except for the two drops below 6 percent, the unemployment rate has fluctuated between 6 percent and 6.2 percent this year.

The August report was sure to cheer administration economists, who have been trying to slow the economy to dampen inflation, but without significantly increasing unemployment.

The Labor Department said most of the employment gains in August occurred among adult women and teen-agers, with some gains for black workers as well.

It gave the following breakdown on unemployment in August for various population groups, compared with the July level:

- Adult men 4.1 percent, unchanged.
- Adult women 6.1 percent, down from 6.5 percent.
- Teen-agers 15.6 percent, down from 16.3.
- Whites 5.2 percent, down from 5.3.
- Blacks and other minorities 11.7 percent, down from 12.5.
- Full-time workers 5.5 percent, down from 5.7.
- White-collar workers 3.5 percent, down from 3.8.

—Blue-collar workers 7 percent, up from 6.9.

Murray Head Start Accepting Applications

Murray Head Start is now accepting applications for its Home Start Program. This program stresses the parent as the primary educator of the child. A home visitor visits the home once a week, and the child comes to the Head Start Center two afternoons a week. Transportation to and from the Center can be arranged.

Since Head Start is a federally funded, primarily low income program, it has income guidelines. The guidelines for 1978 are $6200 for a family of four.

The Murray Head Start program is now accepting applications for the 1978-1979 school year for its home base program. It is especially interested in children residing in the county, but will be happy to receive city children also, a spokesman said.

Any parent having a child who is three, four, or five years of age who is interested in enrolling the child or who desires more information regarding the program, may visit the Head Start office located on North 16th Street, next to the Murray State University Student Union Building, or call 753-7286.

Miss Pitchford Bitter About Trial

By DIANA TAYLOR
Associated Press Writer
BOWLING GREEN, Ky.
(AP) — Marla Elaine Pitchford says she feels bitter about her trial on a self-induced abortion charge, but not toward her former fiancée who testified against her.

"Everyone has made him out to be the big, bad villain and I don't think that's right," she said Thursday in an interview.

"This has been hard on me and it's been hard on him, too," she said, adding that her ex-boyfriend has lost his job because of publicity surrounding her trial.

Miss Pitchford, 22, had been charged with performing an illegal abortion on herself with a knitting needle.

She was found innocent on grounds of insanity Wednesday by a Warren Circuit Court jury of eight men and four women.

The judge had instructed the jurors to find Miss Pitchford innocent if they felt she had no control over her actions at the time of the abortion.

Sitting in the living room of her sister's Bowling Green apartment Thursday, Miss Pitchford appeared relaxed, although the exhaustion from the trial was evident.

After the verdict Wednesday, after the reporters, tape recorders and television lights disappeared, "I just tried to rest, tried to sleep. I was exhausted," she said. It's too soon to judge the impact of the trial, she said, though her attorney said she plans to start an effort to review abortion laws across the country.

Focus of the review would be to make sure that the laws are written so that women cannot be brought to trial for giving themselves abortions, Miss Pitchford said.

"It was wrong that this happened," she said. "I feel a little bitter toward the police and the court."

After she was indicted June 14 on charges of performing an illegal abortion and manslaughter, Miss Pitchford said she was offered a 10-year probated sentence by prosecutors in exchange for a guilty plea.

"That would have made me a convicted felon," she said. "I thought I'd have a 50-50 chance in court."

The manslaughter charge was later dropped when Circuit Judge J. David Francis ruled that a fetus is not legally a person.

During her three-day trial, Miss Pitchford's ex-fiance, Dwight Mundy, testified in exchange for immunity from prosecution on a complicity charge.

"I think the way they (prosecutors) got him to testify was unfair," Miss Pitchford said.

Mundy lives in Hendersonville, Tenn., where attorneys said he could not be subpoenaed by a Kentucky court.

"I cared a lot about him," she said, adding that she believes he is responsible for saving her life.

A physician testified during her trial that Miss Pitchford had a life-threatening uterine infection when the fetus was delivered.

Mundy had insisted on taking her to a doctor when she became ill, Miss Pitchford said, adding that she was unaware of the gravity of her illness until the trial.

Nothing Wrong With Law Says Sponsor Middleton

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — There is nothing wrong with Kentucky's anti-abortion law merely because a woman charged under it was acquitted, the main sponsor of the act says.

"It would appear to me that the jury was merely sympathetic with the girl under the circumstances of the case," said Sen. Clyde Middleton, R-Covington.

Marla Elaine Pitchford was found innocent of performing an illegal abortion on herself during a trial earlier this week at Bowling Green. The jury agreed with her plea of insanity.

Middleton, a lawyer, said in a telephone interview Thursday that he was out of the country at the time of the trial "and I didn't have time to develop a feeling one way or another about the verdict."

He said the outcome does not change his view that "abortions on demand" should not be performed in Kentucky.

Miss Pitchford, 22, could have been sentenced to 10 to 20 years if convicted under the 1974 statute.

That law permits abortions to be performed only by a licensed physician except during the first three months of pregnancy, when a woman may do so under a physician's supervision.

One of the prosecutors criticized the act as poorly written and needing clarification.

University Church Christ Plans For 25th Anniversary

During the month of September, the University Church of Christ will be observing its 25th anniversary. Each of the four former ministers of the church has been invited to be special guests during the four weekends of the month.

Ernest Clevenger, Jr., of Montgomery, Ala., will be the guest speaker on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 2 and 3. Clevenger was the first minister of the then College Church of Christ and preached his first sermon to the church on September 6, 1953 during which time the church met in a renovated dwelling on Fifteenth Street. He was minister of the church during the construction of the present church building which was first occupied in February, 1956.

Clevenger remained with the University Church until September of 1957, at which time he moved from Murray to Russellville, Birmingham, and Montgomery. He currently serves as Academic Dean of Alabama Christian College in Montgomery. His wife, the former Glenda Willoughby of Puryear, Tenn., will accompany him to Murray for the special services.

Anniversary activities will begin with a worship service on Saturday at 7:00 p.m. at which time Clevenger will speak. On Sunday, he will speak to the combined adult Sunday School classes in the main auditorium at 9:30 a.m. and to the entire church during the morning worship hour at 10:30 a.m.

At noon, the Clevengers will be honored guests at a church-wide potluck dinner to be held in the church annex. The weekend's activities will conclude with the Sunday evening worship service at 6:00 p.m.

All former members of the church and especially all friends of the Clevengers are invited to attend all anniversary events, a church spokesman said.

Four Killed In Collision

MACEO, Ky. (AP) — A head-on auto collision on U.S. 60 a mile east of this Daviess County community Thursday afternoon resulted in four deaths, state police said.

The accident killed John S. Holbrook, 68, and Alexander Edmonds, 31, both of Owensboro, along with Marlene Clark, 31, and Sandra Holbrook, 16, both of Rochester, N.Y., state police said.

Officers said the female victims were presumed to have been hitchhiking and had been picked up by Holbrook, who was reported no relation to the female victim by the same surname. The presence of backpacks and other evidence led officers to conclude the women were hitchhikers, state police at the Henderson post reported.

Police said Holbrook attempted to pass two other cars and his auto collided with a car driven by Edmonds. Officers said there were no other occupants of the two vehicles involved in the accident besides the four who died.

The fatalities raised the state traffic toll for the year to 543 compared to 615 roads deaths through Aug. 31 a year ago.

SHAKE 'N RATTLE, THEY WON'T ROLL — Tokyo graphic designer Tomoyuki Ono holds two watermelons of the future, in Tokyo, Japan. Ono grew a score of cubic and tetrahedral melons and put them on display at a gallery on the Ginza in downtown Tokyo. Although she keeps the growing methods a secret it is said she uses steel frames and chemical fertilizers, and has applied to the government for a patent. After the Ginza display they will be on sale for $28.

Attend Church

AN INVESTMENT
IN YOUR FUTURE

Make Time For God

If you are like most people, these days, your life is pretty filled with activity. Job, family, social life, community activities take up the major share of our time. If there is any left over, we might attend church or spend a few minutes in prayer.

This seems to be just the opposite of the way it should be. Time for God should come first and everything else should be secondary. Surprisingly, you may find that the rest of your life becomes less hectic and hurried.

So this week and every week, make time for God, attend the church or synagogue of your choice.

Mrs. Steinkoetter Found Innocent

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury has found Leigh Ann Steinkoetter innocent of charges related to the attempted bombing of her stepmother's home here.

The jury, which deliberated for five hours and 15 minutes Thursday, returned to the courtroom after three hours of deliberation to ask for clarification of a legal matter. The verdict was announced at 8:45 p.m.

Mrs. Steinkoetter and her husband, John Steinkoetter, were indicted by a federal grand jury in Louisville last March on three counts each in connection with the alleged bombing attempt, including possession of an unregistered explosive device, interstate transportation of an unregistered explosive device and placement of the device in the Paducah home of Mrs. Gladys Walden last Dec. 31 with intent to kill her.

The Steinkoetter allegedly manufactured the bomb in their St. Louis, Mo., home. A bomb was discovered there on Feb. 13 and disarmed after Mrs.

Steinkoetter alerted authorities.

Mrs. Steinkoetter was tried on the charges in June, when she was convicted of one count of possession of an unregistered explosive device and received an eight-year prison term. The jury was deadlocked on the other two counts.

Judge Edward H. Johnston told the jury after Thursday's verdict that the first conviction is now under appeal with the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Steinkoetter has maintained at both trials that her husband threatened to harm her and her children if she did not participate in the alleged plot.

John Steinkoetter pleaded guilty to all three counts in June and was sentenced to 14 years in prison.

Authorities have alleged that the Steinkoetter's planned to kill Mrs. Walden in order to inherit her estate, but defense attorneys for Mrs. Steinkoetter have sought to prove, without putting Mrs. Steinkoetter on the witness stand, that her husband coerced her into helping him try to kill Mrs. Walden.

Testifying in Mrs. Steinkoetter's defense Thursday, Mrs. Margaret Steinkoetter, John Steinkoetter's mother, related several incidents in which she said Steinkoetter physically abused one of his former wives.

Steinkoetter's second wife, Sheryl Wunderlik, testified that shortly after their separation in 1969, Steinkoetter beat her severely with his fists and caused her to be hospitalized.

Steinkoetter's 13-year-old stepdaughter, Laura, testified that last January, she and her 6-year-old brother, Bobby, were in their home arguing when Steinkoetter "came upstairs and went into Bobby's bedroom. I could hear Bobby screaming and furniture flying."

Steinkoetter then came into her bedroom, she said, and "threw me down on the floor and started jumping up and down on me." She said her mother, Lee Ann, wanted to take her to a hospital but Steinkoetter refused.

Another defense witness, an assistant professor of psychiatry at St. Louis University, Dr. Richard Quick, testified that Steinkoetter was admitted to a St. Louis mental hospital on several occasions in 1963, 1964 and later in 1968. At those visits, Steinkoetter was diagnosed as a sociopath and also suffering from paranoid schizophrenia, Quick testified.

Carroll Offers Support To Carter's Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll has offered his support to President Carter's troubled natural gas bill.

Carroll, chairman of the National Governors' Association, led a group of 11 governors who met with the President and administration energy and economic leaders for more than an hour Thursday.

After the meeting, Carroll used the White House press room rostrum to urge the House and Senate — now in recess — to approve the natural gas bill. The measure would end federal price controls on natural gas discovered after 1985. It would impose new controls, in the meanwhile, on gas found and sold within one state.

Gov. William Milliken, R-Michigan, joined Carroll on the press room rostrum in a show of bipartisanship. Milliken preceded Carroll as chairman of the governor's association.

"It's a question of national prestige, national survival," Carroll said. "If the bill isn't passed this session, the effect — nationally, and internationally — will be devastating."

Carroll said the bill would "lessen the demand, in some respects, for coal," but he said it would help Kentucky by bringing a stable climate for investment in all forms of energy.

The governors, Carroll said, "are speaking to the interests of the nation, not of our individual states."

The Senate and House will next consider a 20-page conference committee-approved version of the bill. Senate debate is scheduled on the measure Sept. 11 and a filibuster has already been threatened.

Carroll said recent loss of support of the bill was due to "substantial misrepresentations of fact by various groups." He said the bill wouldn't be as complex or hard to administer as opponents say it would.

Carroll contends the added flow of gas the bill would eventually produce would help keep prices from rising as high as opponents are arguing they will.

Spare Parts May Go To S. Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has notified Congress of plans to sell South Korea $60 million in spare parts and supplies for fighter planes, light bombers and transport planes furnished earlier by the United States. The proposed sale is subject to congressional veto within 30 days.

'Paperless' Newsroom Now Possible

By GENE McCUTCHEON
Managing Editor

A new era of newspaper production has dawned at The Murray Ledger & Times with the installation of an electronic text management system in the news and classified advertising departments of the newspaper.

Basically, the new computerized system allows both departments to directly hook into the newspaper's phototypesetters electronically.

Four video display terminals (VDTs) have been installed in the newsroom and one VDT serves the classified department. The VDTs are wired into a central controller, an electronic box slightly bigger than a breadbox.

All units of the system are interconnected with each other through the controller. Utilizing two dual disk drive units, the system has a storage capability of over one million characters "on-line" and readily accessible at any one time. Total storage in the system is virtually unlimited through the use of "floppy disks" that hold over a quarter of a million characters each and can be put into and taken out of the system as simply as changing a phonograph record.

In addition to all that storage, each of the five VDTs — referred to in the industry as "intelligent terminals" — contains its own 6,000 character memory capability that is totally separate from the rest of the system giving us an additional 30,000 characters of storage.

Several manufacturers offer computer systems designed for newspapers the size of The Murray Ledger & Times.

"We labored over the decision of which manufacturer to select," publisher Walter L. Apperson, said, "and ultimately decided on the Mycro-Comp system built by Mycro-Tek, Inc., of Wichita, Kans., for our operation."

Apperson explained that the Mycro-Comp system seems to offer many advantages over other systems.

"Each unit of the Mycro-Comp system, unlike some other systems on the market, can stand alone, that is, the units can operate independently of the others," Apperson said.

The system also offers interchangeability of circuit cards and other parts from one unit to the other which provides built-in back-up in the event of a malfunction.

The system, ultimately, will eliminate the need for typewriters on which news stories and classified ad copy have previously been written.

Each reporter and the newspaper's classified ad takers now "write" on the VDTs which simply are black-and-white tv screens with keyboards attached. The VDTs allow the user to automatically make corrections of typographical errors as well as change copy prior to the story or ad being set into type the way it will appear in the newspaper.

THIS IS HOW TO DO IT — Publisher Walt Apperson listens intently as applications trainer Harline Bond explains one of the many operations of the terminal. The total cost of the computerized text management system amounted to $50,000.

THIS WAY, TONY — Sports editor Tony Wilson is absorbed in a lesson on the use of the computer system from Mycro-Tek trainer Harline Bond.

Staff Photos By Lowell Arnsley, Rick Orr and Gene McCutcheon

The changes can involve deletions or additions to the copy or could be the moving of a word, sentence or even a whole paragraph from one place in the copy to another, all automatically and in the blink of an eye.

After a story or ad is written, proofread and corrected on the screen of the VDT it is "written to disk." This means that the story or ad, which up to this point has been contained only in the memory of the VDT on which it is composed, is recorded on one of the four floppy disks in the dual disk drive unit. Each story is given a name at the time it is recorded on a disk so that it can be easily retrieved later for additional editing or updating.

Once a story is recorded on the disk, it can be left indefinitely or can be sent on to the phototypesetter to be prepared for inclusion in an edition of the newspaper.

But what happens when a floppy disk

GETTING THE BUGS OUT — As with any piece of equipment, especially computerized equipment, "bugs" usually crop up from time to time. Here, managing editor Gene McCutcheon is changing the "proms" (programmed integrated circuit chips about the size of a man's knuckle) that control the operation of a VDT and its interaction with the rest of the system.

TRAINING SESSION — Staff members gathered together recently as applications trainer Harline Bond gave us a crash course in how to utilize the text management system.

— to be technically correct we should call it a "diskette" — becomes full? In that case, a member of the staff does a "kill and update" procedure.

The kill procedure and the update procedure are actually two different steps that erase from the disk unwanted or no longer needed stories or ads. This means added protection against a story being erased from the system in error.

Even though a story has been "killed," it will remain in the system and can still be retrieved until the disk on which it is stored is "updated."

An update of a disk will erase all stories (referred to as files) that have been killed and will leave on the disk unkillable files. Even the update command has built-in protection against the premature erasure of a story.

The Mycro-Tek programmer who designed the update protection apparently had a sense of humor because when an operator attempts to update a disk (erase the killed stories) a message reading "SURE ABOUT THIS?" will flash on the VDT screen and the operator must hit the proper key for the erasure to be completed. If the operator actually does not want to update the disk, the command can be cancelled by striking any other key on the console.

The installation of the electronic system means, in effect, that a "paperless" newsroom is possible at The Murray Ledger & Times.

In addition to handling all of the local newspaper copy input the system also captures all of the copy that comes over the wires of the Associated Press.

This enables wire service editing to be accomplished directly on the VDTs and theoretically eliminates the need for "hard copy" (the familiar AP teletype machine) in the newsroom.

Format commands on the system are extremely simple to remember. For instance, the command to read a story from disk (call the story from the system's memory to the operator's VDT screen) is to strike the "r" key on the console followed by the disk number and the story's name. Similarly, a story can be recorded in the system (written to disk) by striking the "w" key on the console.

Classified System

The classified advertising package built into the system will greatly streamline the handling of want ads by the classified ad staff, a benefit to subscribers and readers as well as to the staff itself.

Every classified ad entered into the system is given a file number by the computer and ads can be recorded days, months, or even years before their scheduled run dates.

The computer automatically sorts and classifies the ads daily, inserting all the help wanteds, real estate, etc., ads under the proper heading and even alphabetizing the ads under each heading.

The computer system has only been used for the classified pages for a week and classified ad manager Robert P. Taylor says "we're about to get everything sorted out the way it should be."

The classified ad staff has been kept busy during the past week entering all currently running want ads as well as new ads placed daily into the system.

"With the hundreds of ads we handle on a daily basis, we know it is possible that a few of them could have been misfiled or may have been entered with typographical errors during this 'crash' period," Taylor said.

Taylor urged advertisers whose ads are incorrect or under the wrong classification to please call the newspaper (753-1916) and report the error.

Once an ad has been entered into the system's memory, it may be recalled indefinitely, even though it is no longer appearing in the newspaper. The ads may be retrieved with only a minimum amount identifying information.

For example, if the phone number of the ad is known, that is all that is needed to search through the thousands of ads that will be contained in the memory in a few weeks and find that particular ad. The search for the ad will only take a few seconds.

In the very near future, a line-printer will be added to the system which will automatically handle all of the billing for classified ads as well as provide printouts as needed of news stories or other information contained in the system.

"We are proud of our system and feel it will be a definite asset to the operation of Murray's daily newspaper," Apperson said.

Apperson has issued a blanket invitation to everyone to stop by the newspaper office and look over the system. Included in that invitation is an invitation to groups with a request that the group leader call in advance so that arrangements can be made for a demonstration of the system as well as a tour of the rest of the newspaper plant operation.

THE WAY IT IS NOW — Kate Apperson shows off one of the new video display terminals recently installed at the newspaper. These computerized keyboards hooked to tv screens are now used to capture keystrokes of newsroom and classified personnel and electronically send them to automatic phototypesetters.

Many Changes Have Occurred Over Past Ten Years

By GENE McCUTCHEON
Managing Editor

It was about ten years ago to the day the I first walked in to the office of The Murray Ledger & Times. The changes that have taken place in those years did not seem so out-of-the-ordinary at the time they occurred, but when I sit back and reflect on them, they're astounding.

I had no idea in August of 1968, when I responded to the classified ad this newspaper had published seeking a circulation manager, that I would still be here ten years later. As a matter of fact, about all my new bride — whom I had married only a couple of weeks before — and I knew about Murray had to do with Murray State University where she would enter her senior year in the fall.

The simple fact was I was trying to land a job in Murray to establish in-state residency so my wife's tuition would be lower. (We natives of upper West Tennessee have only received a break on tuition at MSU in recent years.)

And, for reasons still unbeknownst to me, the owner and publisher of the paper at the time, Jim. Williams, decided to give me a shot at riding herd on the carrier boys and delivering papers at all hours of the night to subscribers the carriers had missed.

It was totally beyond my comprehension then that ten years later I would be writing this story on a computerized television set that is wired into a keyboard whose similarity to a typewriter just about ends with the alphabet keys.

But that's what I'm doing. The changes in the operation of this daily newspaper, as well as most others across the nation, have been prompted by ever-developing technology both in and outside the industry.

Ten years ago — when I started in the business — The Murray Ledger & Times was still a "hot metal" paper. That's industry lingo that means all of the type for the printed page was set on Linotypes and Ludlows — those Rube Goldberg looking machines that cast type from molten lead.

The newspaper had just converted to printing by the "offset" method which involves the transferring of a photographic image of the newspaper page from a thin aluminum plate to a rubber blanket and then onto newsprint. That is, we were offset every day except on Saturdays when we cranked up the old eight-page capacity

Goss Comet flatbed letterpress back in the rear of the building.

In our early offset days, we handled all of the production of the newspaper with the exception of the printing stage in the local plant and then carried the page-size photographic negatives of the newspaper to Paris, Tenn., where our newspaper was printed on the press at the Paris Post-Intelligencer.

After about eight months of printing offset Monday through Friday in Paris and letterpress at our own plant on Saturdays, we went entirely offset and were utilizing the Paris press six days a week.

The daily treks to Paris lasted until 1971 when we purchased our own, four-unit, 16-page capacity Goss Community web offset newspaper printing press. In March of 1977, we further expanded our press capacity by adding a fifth unit to the original press configuration. We can now print 20 full-size or 40 tabloid-size pages in one press run.

The first two pieces of "cold type" (industry term for typesetting equipment that most often involves a photographic process but for sure does not cast type from molten metal) equipment that we purchased were a set of Justowriters and a Varityper Headliner.

At the time, we thought we were really uptown but by comparison those pieces of typesetting equipment are antiquated by today's standards.

The set of Justowriters were of the "strike-on" family of early coldtype machines. Basically, they consisted of a pair of overgrown, modified typewriters. They operated by first retyping a story on one of the machines which punched a coded paper tape. The paper tape was then fed into its workmate which automatically retyped the story into a "justified" column of type utilizing a carbon ribbon for uniform blackness on a heavy paper stock.

We first put those contraptions in our front office put after a few days of listening to them automatically pound out articles with a seemingly deafening noise, we decided to move them elsewhere in the building.

The Justowriters were used for setting text matter while our other initial coldtype purchase, the Headliner, was used to set the bigger type for headlines and display ads.

We thought the Headliner was hot stuff, too, but compared with the equipment we're using today it is not only antiquated but terribly slow.

The first actual piece of computerized phototypesetting equipment we purchased was a Compugraphic model 2961 that we installed in our composing room in 1970. (It's still there, by the way, humming right along.) At the same time, we purchased another Compugraphic machine, a model 7200 that is used for headlines and display type. The main difference in the Headliner and the 7200 is that the 7200 operates directly from a keyboard while the Headliner was manually operated by turning a large disk around to the proper letter much like an overgrown Dymc label maker.

The 2961 was also driven by paper tape, similar to that used on the Justowriters, but it sets type at the rate of 33 lines per minute using a photographic process. Simply, it exposes images of letters on photographic paper by flashing a light through an alpha-numeric filmstrip (called a font) that is spinning on a drum at the rate of 2500 rpm.

The 2961 was the frontrunner of two other text phototypesetters that we have since added — a 2961 high speed and a Computape I — which both set type at twice the 33-lines per minute speed of the 2961.

The other major addition to our composing room came in 1973 shortly after the newspaper was purchased by present publisher Walter L. Apperson. That was the addition of an ACM 9000, an "area composition machine."

Unlike the 7200, which sets display type in one long strip on a piece of paper the width of 35 mm film, the 9000 has the capability of intermixing type sizes and styles and setting a complete block of copy at one time, ready for pasteup.

What I've attempted to describe here only skims over the top of the many major changes that have occurred in the operation of your daily newspaper in the past ten years.

To a former Volunteer and Blue Devil fan who now yells for the Racers, Tigers, Lakers and Wildcats, being able to sit back, look around, and see the progress made by this newspaper and the many, many changes made over the years is, to say the least, gratifying.

On behalf of our publisher, Walt Apperson, and the rest of our staff I'd like to extend a personal invitation to our readers to drop by 103 N. 4th Street and take a look at "your" newspaper from the inside. We'll be more than happy to give you a guide tour of a plant and facilities and especially our new computerized text management system.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The petunia, whose red-purple and white flowers make gardens and grounds of homesteads bright in mid-summer and autumn, have an interesting history.

In his thought-provoking book, "The Survival of the Unlike," the great American botanist, Liberty Hyde Bailey, stated that our magnificent modern petunias are a strange mixture of two original species, the first of which was found on the shores of La Plata, a river estuary in South America.

Petunias are of the Nightshade family of plants and are distant kin to the potato, tomato, eggplant, tobacco and Jimson weed. Also, like the flowers of these plants, the blossoms of the petunia are especially adapted to surrender nectar to the long-tongued sphinx or hummingbird moth, the moth that produces the terrible-looking tobacco worm.

But notwithstanding that petunia flowers are especially adapted to the delectation of hummingbird moths, honeybees which—like man—have claimed all the earth, will work like beavers in a petunia bed. They will scramble over and into the blossoms, protesting angrily with high-pitched buzzing because of the tight fit. Thus they rifle the petunia's nectar wells of sweetening meant for insects of quite different construction.

Botanists say that petunia beds in almost any region are visited by hummingbird moths. Therefore it is a safe guess that the remote white ancestor of our petunias had some special species of this moth upon which it depended to transfer its pollen.

The strong perfume it exhaled at twilight was an odor signal to these insects and their friends to come and dine.

MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE
MLS

YOU CAN TOO AFFORD A HOME

According to Census Department statistics, 25-to-34 year olds are not only the fastest growing age group in this country, they also buy the most first homes. More than two million Americans under 35 have bought homes since 1970.

So, in spite of rising costs, it's obvious that not all young people are being priced out of the home market. If you think you are, why not sit down and discuss the situation with a REALTOR®.

REALTORS® are the real estate agents who belong to the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®. They're required to be actively engaged in the real estate business, and therefore, they're in a position to give you the latest information on both the real estate and money markets in your community. If anyone can help you find a home you can afford, it's a REALTOR®.

Since the demand for homes will continue to be strong for years to come, maybe you can't afford not to buy soon. Check with a REALTOR® today.
